SCREENS

Still (HIP award Winner for Soft Partitions/ Wall Systems) takes its inspiration from architecture with an emphasis on light, proportion, rhythm, and materials. Screens may stand solo or be layered to create a desired composition. Each comes standard in four widths and three heights—48", 59", and 70", measurements thoughtfully chosen to provide varying levels of cover for seated and standing occupants. To increase transparency and allow airflow, screens may be specified with windows made from slatted oak or walnut. They also may be finished with rounded or squared corners. Upholstery options provide further customization, with choices ranging from refined woven textiles to bleach-cleanable fabrics. The panel base allows for power to be integrated into the system. The panel's metal feet may be powder-coated in an array of 26 colors to coordinate with the upholstery. Still is tackable where the specified fabric allows

Endlessly flexible, Still is designed to address the evolving needs of office, hospitality, education, and healthcare environments.

The Free Address modular furniture system (Neocon Silver Award Winner) offers a single, integrated solution for today's wide variety of work styles, while maximizing space and bringing people together.

Whether it's used for heads-down focus, team collaboration, quick touchdowns, or impromptu lunch gatherings, Free Address provides a dynamic, spontaneous environment that encourages collaboration and fosters community.

Designed for today's active, multipurpose spaces, Free Address tables with casters are easy to group, move, and reconfigure. Users can quickly create arrangements that serve a group's immediate needs from collaborative meeting spaces, to training areas, to individual heads down desks. With real estate at a premium and the increasing need for social distancing as we return to work, Free Address tables can serve many different functions depending on the changing needs of a space.
